Interests

Summary

With 12+ years of international experience in program management across various industries, I bring a strategic mindset and passion for innovation to deliver successful outcomes. Skilled in leading cross-functional teams, I excel in complex and challenging start-up environments. Recently, I rounded out my leadership skillset with fullstack (MERN) web development training, gaining experience in today's key technical languages and learning to communicate effectively with technical teams while pair programming with other engineers. I'm confident that my technical and leadership expertise will bring a unique perspective to any organization.
